Excerpt from Born For The Road: My Story So Far

"I was born to run, I was born to be free." These are the opening lines of "Born to Run," one of my most famous songs. And they're also a pretty good description of my life.

I've always been a restless spirit. I grew up in a small town, but I always dreamed of seeing the world. I started playing music when I was a teenager, and I quickly realized that it was my calling. I loved the feeling of being on stage, and I loved the way that music could connect with people.

I've been fortunate to have a successful career in music. I've sold millions of records, won numerous awards, and played to sold-out crowds all over the world. But the thing that I'm most proud of is the fact that my music has touched the lives of so many people.

I've written songs about love, loss, hope, and redemption. I've written songs about the struggles of everyday people. And I've written songs about the power of dreams.

I believe that music has the power to change the world. It can make people think, it can make people feel, and it can make people dance. And I'm grateful that I've been able to use my music to make a difference in the lives of others.
