The chicken, named Henrietta, had once been a simple, contented bird, pecking at grain and wandering around the farm. But one fateful day, everything changed. As the village children played on the frozen pond, they noticed something peculiar - Henrietta was unusually curious and coordinated. One of the children, a mischievous boy named Shmuel, had the bright idea of attaching a pair of old ice skates to Henrietta's feet.

To everyone's astonishment, Henrietta took to the skates like a natural. She glided effortlessly, her tiny legs propelling her around the ice with remarkable skill. News of Henrietta's newfound talent spread throughout Chelm like wildfire, and soon, people from all walks of life flocked to the pond to witness the extraordinary chicken on skates.

Hershele and Henrietta

As Hershele watched Henrietta skate, he couldn't resist joining the fun. With laughter in his heart and excitement in his step, he borrowed a pair of skates from a nearby child and stepped onto the ice. At first, he wobbled and stumbled, but with determination and the help of Henrietta as his guide, Hershele gradually found his balance and began to glide across the ice with increasing confidence.

As they skated side by side, Hershele and Henrietta formed an unlikely friendship. Hershele admired Henrietta's courage and determination, while Henrietta appreciated Hershele's kindness and gentle spirit. Together, they shared laughter, stories, and adventures, their bond deepening with each passing day.

The Importance of Kindness

One afternoon, as Hershele and Henrietta were skating on the pond, they noticed a group of children making fun of a young boy who had fallen and couldn't get back up. Without hesitation, Hershele skated over to the boy and offered his hand. With a warm smile and encouraging words, he helped the boy to his feet and consoled him.

Henrietta, watching from afar, was filled with pride and affection for her friend. She realized that true friendship was not only about having fun together but also about showing kindness and compassion to others. From that day forward, Hershele and Henrietta made it their mission to spread joy and laughter wherever they went, always offering a helping hand to those in need.
